ABOUT KATAKA

Kataka is one of the oldest cities in Odisha, India. Popularly known as the “Millennium City” and the “Silver City,” it is celebrated for its rich history, cultural heritage, traditional craftsmanship, and commercial significance. Established in 989 CE, Kataka served as the capital of Odisha until the state capital shifted to Bhubaneswar in 1948. Today, it remains an important administrative, commercial, and judicial centre of the state.

Situated in the Mahanadi River delta, Kataka is surrounded by the Mahanadi and Kathajodi rivers, which contribute to its distinctive geographical character. The city is home to several historical landmarks, including Barabati Fort, an ancient fortification that reflects its glorious past, and the Netaji Birth Place Museum, which commemorates the birthplace of the renowned freedom fighter Netaji Subhas Chandra Bose. The Orissa High Court, located in Kataka, further establishes the city’s importance as Odisha’s judicial centre.

Kataka is particularly famous for its exquisite silver filigree work, locally known as Tarakasi, a traditional craft involving intricate designs created from fine silver wires. The city also celebrates Durga Puja with great enthusiasm, attracting visitors through its beautifully decorated pandals, artistic idols, and vibrant festive atmosphere. Its culinary traditions are equally distinctive, with popular delicacies such as Dahibara Aloodum, Thunkapuri, and various varieties of chaat and sweets.

With its blend of historical monuments, cultural traditions, thriving markets, educational institutions, and modern urban development, Kataka offers a fascinating glimpse into Odisha’s heritage. The city beautifully balances its historical legacy with contemporary progress, making it an important destination for visitors interested in history, culture, architecture, and authentic Odia experiences.

PLACES TO VISIT

THE BARABATI FORT

The Barabati Fort is one of the points of attraction in Kataka for the visitors, which is situated between the two rivers Mahnadi and Kathjori. As per the Madalapanji the Barabati fort was built in the 989 A.D by the Ganga dynasty. The famous Barabati Stadium, which is said to be the venue for various sports, events and cultural programs, is situated next to the Barabati fort. The famous temple of Goddess Katak Chandi is also situated near the fort.

DHABALESWAR ISLAND

Dhabaleswar Island is a peaceful and beautiful island in the Mahanadi River. It is near to the Indian city of Kataka. People know the Island for its calm atmosphere, lush greenery, and old temples. It covers an area with many plants and a river running through it, making it a peaceful place for travellers and tourists.

MAA KATAKA CHANDI MANDIR

Durga Puja and Kali Puja festivals at Chandi Temple truly come to life each year during its grand annual celebrations of Durga Puja and Kali Puja. Spanning 16 delightful days from Ashwina Krishna Ashtami through to Vijayadashami, these festivities bring immense joy and devotion from people from near and far as they pay their homage to goddess Chandi.

BARABATI STADIUM

The Barabati Stadium in Kataka hosted only the third one-day international in this country, in January 1982, when India put it across England by five wickets to lift the series 2-1. In the first Test match here five seasons later, the Sri Lankans were greeted with an underprepared wicket affording vastly unpredictable bounce.
